BOTH PARTIES SEE OHIO WIN

Leaders Privately Say They'd Settle for Present Line-up.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 1—Republican and Democratic campaign managers are making great claims of congressional gains in Ohio, but privately some leaders on both sides admit they would be satisfied if they hold their present line-up—17 Republicans and six Democrats.

In three districts incumbents seeking reelection—two Republicans and one Democrat—won their seats two years ago by margins well under 5,000 votes. In two other districts Republicans won by just over 5,000. The at-large race was won by only 6.2 per cent.

Won by 3,117

In the Sixth district, mostly rural, Republican Edward O. McCowen won in 1944, by 3,117. His opponent this year is Franklin E. Smith. The district always is considered wobbly.

Republican incumbent Homer A. Ramey of the Ninth (Toledo) district won two years ago over former Rep. John F. Hunter by 5,042 votes. This year Ramey has for an opponent Toledo's vice mayor, Michael V. Disalle, a smooth and popular politician.

Republican incumbent Walter E. Brehm of the Eleventh district won by only 5,165 two years ago. His Democrat opponent this year is Lester S. Reid, virtually a newcomer in politics. The district is not traditionally Republican, but the G.O.P. claims it.

Democrat incumbent Walter B. Huber of the Fourteenth district won his seat two years ago by defeating the Republican incumbent, Ed Rowe, by only 2,625 votes. Huber's opponent this year is Fred W. Danner, a former newspaper printer and now a printing executive. Anything can happen.

Hope for Comeback

Republican incumbent P. W. Griffiths won two years ago in the Fifteenth rural district by 15,954. His opponent this year is former congressman Robert T. Secrest, who resigned his seat to accept a navy commission. Secrest won his last election in 1940 by a plurality of 17,126. Democrat leaders voice high hopes of staging a comeback.

Republican incumbent Earl R. Lewis won his last election in the Eighteenth district by the slender margin of 2,749. His opponent this year is Eugene A. Blum. This is a coal mining district, and the miners' votes are uncertain.

Congressman at-large George H. Bender of Cleveland won two years ago by a plurality of 180,000. Unless the entire state swings heavily to the Democrats, Bender would appear to be tagged for reelection over William M. Boyd.

Citation Honoring Son Killed in War Is Sent To Parents

The presidential citation and bronze star awarded the First Marine Division, Reinforced, of the U. S. Coast Guard, to which the late Charles Wilbur Williams, boatswain's mate, second class, was attached, has been received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Williams of 386 Commercial street. The citation was awarded the unit for demonstrating outstanding gallantry.

Issued in the name of the President of the United States, the citation reads, "The officers and enlisted men of the First Marine Division, Reinforced, on Aug. 7 to 9, 1942, demonstrated outstanding gallantry and determination in successfully executing forced landing assaults against a number of strongly defended Japanese positions on Tulagi, Gavutu, Tanambogo, Florida and Guadalcanal, British Solomon Islands, completely routing all the enemy forces and seizing a most valuable base and airfield within the enemy zone of operations in the South Pacific ocean. From the above period until Dec. 9, 1942, this reinforced division not only held their important, strategic positions despite determined and repeated Japanese naval, air and land attacks, but by a series of offensive operations against strong enemy resistance drove the Japanese from the proximity of the air field and inflicted great losses on them by land and air attacks. The courage and determination displayed in these operations were of an inspiring order." The citation bore the signature of Frank Knox, secretary of the Navy.

The Purple Heart and medal, in recognition of military achievement and wounds received in action, awarded posthumously to the Marion coast guardsman, were received last July by his parents.

A Harding High varsity football player, he enlisted in the Coast Guard in 1935 and saw his first active service during the Ohio river flood of 1936. After three years of service he returned home and became a member of the state highway patrol.

Later he reenlisted in the Coast Guard and was in active service on both the east and west coasts. He was reported missing in action in October 1942 and was listed as dead by the government as of Nov. 1, 1945. He was 29 years old.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Aid to Digestion

Most people who suffer from constipation would be amazed if told they could find their best remedy in a glass of water. And yet, to a great extent, it's true. A single glass of water, naturally, will do no good. But the regular and consistent drinking of water with meals will. No fewer than two glasses of water should be taken at each meal and these must be consumed in addition to other fluids, such as milk, tea, of coffee.

Water plays an enormous role in the digestion of food. It is essential from the first to the last step in the digestive process.

In the very beginning, water, together with digestive juices, is drawn into the stomach and mixed with the food. This process is repeated again and again in the bowel, until all digestible food is prepared for absorption. Then the water, with the food it contains, is re-absorbed, through the wall of the intestine, leaving undigestible food parts in a somewhat dry mass within the bowel. Since water is so necessary to the digestive process, the best time to take it is with meals.

This is shown by a series of studies carried out by Dr. James A. McKenney of Oakland, California, to determine the relationship of water to constipation. He kept records to show whether patients drank water before, after, or with meals, and also as to whether they used laxatives. It was soon noted that those who took enough water with their meals needed no laxatives; those who did not were frequent users of laxative medicines.

The patients who were suffering from constipation were instructed to discontinue the use of laxatives and of enemas or the injection of fluid into the lower bowel, and, to take two or more glassfuls of water, either cold or hot as preferred, with each meal. This was done regardless of what other fluids were taken, such as tea, coffee, soups, milk, or other fluids.

In the more severe cases the patients were advised to take an additional glassful of water sometime before breakfast. If, with this treatment, the patients had no bowel movement for four or five days, they were instructed to take one single enema of a solution of soapsuds, which was not to be repeated.

About 475 patients were studied for varying periods of time. The patients ranged in age from 13 to 79 years. Of 230 patients suffering from constipation, who were using laxatives or enemas, the treatment outlined above brought complete relief with the production of regular daily bowel movements.

It is often found that the use of several servings of fruits and vegetables in the diet may also help in overcoming constipation. Dr. McKenney thinks that their effectiveness is due not only to their water content, but also to the fact that they take up and carry water through the digestive tract.

Treatment was also attempted by giving the water before and after meals, but this was not nearly as effective as when taken with meals.

Of course, diet is also important in relieving constipation. I have outlined the important facts concerning this condition which will be sent upon request. A stamped self-addressed envelope should be enclosed.

QUEEN CROWNED AT GALION MARDI GRAS

Special to The Star

GALION, Nov. 1—The crowning of Miss Carol McMichael, junior at North Robinson High school, as queen of the Galion Mardi Gras, Thursday night on the reviewing stand of the judges on Galion's public square, climaxed the city's annual Mardi Gras sponsored by the Galion Merchants association.

Miss McMichael was picked from a group of six other queens of surrounding towns by three judges all of Mansfield. The queens, together with Miss Beatrice Shockley, Galion High school senior, who was chosen Galion queen, and did not compete for Queen of the Mardi Gras, were entertained at a dinner at Hotel Talbott prior to the evening parade of masqueraders.

Despite the drizzling rain of the late afternoon and early evening, thousands of persons jammed the public square to see the judges select the winners of the Mardi Gras. Two parades were held, one at 4 p. m. for the youngsters and the adult parade at 8 p. m.

Nine bands participated in the evening event. The parade was led by the color bearers of the American Legion and Sam Brewer who had charge of both afternoon and evening parades.

Bands in the evening parade were the Iberia High school, Johnsville, Crestline alumni, Galion Junior and Senior High bands, North Robinson, Crestline, and an unidentified group.

More than 400 children took part in the afternoon parade.

COLLEGE PAPER EDITORS CHIDED FOR EXCESSES

Instructor Doubts They Back Up Charges Against G.O.P.

By The Associated Press

BEREA, O., Nov. 1 — Robert Elde of Detroit Lake, Minn. and Lee Templeton of Berea, co-editors of Baldwin-Wallace college's semi-monthly newspaper, the Exponent, have been chided for their signed editorial asserting the Republican party is made of "non-thinking or ill-thinking native Fascists."

In a letter to the editors, Gregg Phifer, an English department instructor and faculty advisor for the publication, suggested they might not be albe to prove some of their statements, such as: "A man cannot be a liberal and gain a Republican nomination."

Dean Myron F. Wicke issued a statement that the editors' views were "in no sense representative of the viewpoint of the college administration nor, as far as we know, of the student body as a whole."

College officials also displayed unsigned communications which they said were from students asking closer faculty supervision over the paper.

PREDICT HEAVY VOTE IN CRAWFORD COUNTY

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Nov. 1—Old-time politicians here are anticipating one of the biggest votes in the history of politics in the county.

The 1944 presidential election brought out 17,844 voters in Crawford county and an even heavier vote is anticipated by party leaders. Total vote cast in the county in 1942 was 10,448.

Crawford county's local contests are centered on the following races, congressman from the Eighth district with Congressman Frederick C. Smith, Republican of Marion seeking his fourth term and John T. Siemon, Democrat of Kenton, as opposition; the race for representative to the general assembly between Carl Baker of Tiro, Democrat and Terry Drake of Galion, Republican, both newcomers in politics and the two local contests for county commissioner and county auditor.

E. O. Roop, Democrat, is seeking reelection as commissioner and is opposed by E. R. Leonard of Bucyrus. County Auditor Clarence C. Metzger is seeking another term as auditor with Frederick Klein, Republican, as his opponent.

Another contest of special interest here is that for judge of the district court of appeals in which Common Pleas Judge C. U. Ahl of Bucyrus as a candidate with George S. Middleton of Bellefontaine, incumbent.

A three mill tax levy for school operation and a two-tenths mill levy for park development and operation also will come before voters here. Both are for five years duration.

Of Interest To the Voters of the 8th Congressional District

ORDERS FROM MOSCOW

WHATEVER doubt may have existed in the minds of some that the CIO—PAC in this country is not directly associated with and working for the Communist party in Russia must have been removed the other night when the Moscow Communist government "advised" the American people to vote only for candidates for congress who have the endorsement of the CIO—PAC.

Such boldness on the part of the Russian Communists to "advise" a free people how to vote to sell out their country should be the last warning necessary to bring the people of America to the realization of how far the Communists have already traveled in their efforts to take over in America.

The "advice" was beamed to America in English by a Mr. A. Ossipov, who spoke, we repeat, in English, from a Moscow station. He denounced the last congress as a "tool of reactionary interests" because it did not fall in step with Communism.

There is but one answer to this broadcast and that answer is for the American people to repudiate every CIO—PAC-backed candidate on all of the American ballots November 5. We then will have put Moscow in his place. We grew to become the greatest nation on earth by reason of our free enterprise, our free press, our free speech, our free religion—and our freedom to vote. We need now to work any further foreign attempts by any nation to "advise" or tell us what to do at the polls.

Why does Moscow want only CIO—PAC-backed candidates elected? Because Moscow could control them. There is no other answer.

We of this congressional district know that Cong. Frederick C. Smith does not have the backing of the CIO—PAC. He is not wanted by Moscow's Communists. He is a record of a real American in all of his congressional expressions and voting. But what about his opponent, John Siemon of Kenton? A CIO—PAC-issued letter last May 1, which was sent to all CIO members of a Bucyrus local stated that Mr. Siemon had the endorsement of the CIO—PAC. The author of the letter said two days later that this was a mistake: that Mr. Siemon had not been endorsed as originally reported. But Mr. Siemon has not repudiated it publicly here. Mr. Smith's position on the Moscow-controlled CIO—PAC is clear. What is Mr. Siemon's position? The people are entitled to know.

The two greatest issues of the forthcoming election are the New Deal and the CIO—PAC. Today's candidates owe it to the people to whom they are looking for votes to make themselves clear on these two most vital issues.

The above article is a reprint of an editorial which appeared in the October 24, 1946 Telegraph Forum, Bucyrus, Ohio.

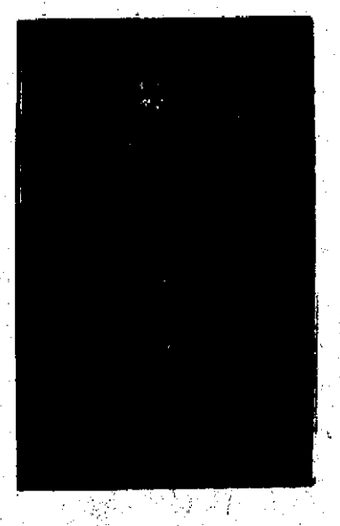
Stalin Instructs American Voters!!


According to the New York Times of October 21st and radio newscasters, Comrade Ossipov, mouthpiece for Stalin, in an English Broadcast from Moscow admonished the American people to vote for candidates backed by the Political Action Committee and said that the election of a Republican Congress would be a "disaster."
It is well known that the P. A. C. supports those candidates who favor Communism, Regimentation and Bureaucratic government.
The American people are fully capable of making their own choice. We are confident that on November 5th America will answer this impertinent dictator in no uncertain voice.

After Four-Year Tour, Boyle Takes Inventory

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 — Everybody who takes a trip abroad, springs form a baby, writes a book or crawls safely out of a train wreck, asks himself:

"What did I gain from this experience?"

So like any other tourist—for foreign correspondents, however they may dislike to think so, are basically just long-term tourists on an expense account — I took out my battered notebook to thumb back and see what four years of war and peace overseas had taught me.

Hal Boyle

The notebook had a few statistics:

Since leaving Mayor LaGuardia's bailiwick (it was then), I had gone around the world—by 1960 who won't have?—and traveled about 102,000 miles. Some 50,000 were by jeep, 50,000 in sixteen different types of aircraft, and 2,000 on my own bunions and assorted oxcarts, burros and one flea-ravaged camel that spent twenty years learning the long way around a pyramid.

I had visited fifty countries and six continents. That's a lot of moving for a fellow who used to argue with his wife over who would walk down to the corner stand to buy the first edition.

Holds Many Memories

The notebook held many memories. I had helped cover a World War, climbed the Eiffel tower single-handed and spent a nice afternoon conversing with a young lady in Bali who never saw a three-base hit or a brassiere.

I saw a lot of battles, a few riots, a couple of revolutions, and many bread and rice lines. I talked to several thousand people, from General Eisenhower — he said, "Hello" — to a Bombay fakir who could tie himself into a pretzel, but didn't serve beer. And what did it all do to the "me" that was?

Well, travel is still broadening, so I beamed up ten pounds, harvested another chin and lost enough hair to make me first cousin to a cue ball. And I learned a lot of odd and useless things, such as:

That French girls think more clearly but don't dress as well as Manhattan stenographers;

Greased Palm Prominent

That the glad hand in all parts of the world is giving way to the greased palm;

That Greeks still fortify their wine with pine resin just as they did when Demosthenes went around with his mouth full of pebbles;

That foxholes make more friends than cocktail parties;

That Calcutta hotels have more rats than guests, and more servants than either;

That dead horses smell worse than dead men, but that the world already is forgetting the smell of death;

"Baldies" Coming Into Own

That skinny bald-headed American soldiers break more German fraulein hearts than do fat American soldiers with wavy hair (that's the only sign I saw that the Goering influence is waning);

That the caste system of war, for all its inequalities, defeats fewer men than the age old caste system of peace;

That the Chinese have lots of fun and children, while the Indians just have children.

I also learned at least three fundamental things.

(1) That men and women in all lands—from a Bronx taxicab driver to a lady hodcarrier in Bombay—ache for peace, freedom and security for their children in a world better than they themselves have known;

(2) That they all, deep in their hearts, are willing to accept any pattern that will lead them nearer that eternal goal;

(3) And that, to gain it, peace must produce new heroes of compromise and tolerance in many countries to defeat fresh ambitious villains again piping the old Hitler tunes of distrust, prejudice, pride and greed.

Union County Grange Elects New Officers

KENTON, Nov. 1—Marion E. Tingler, assistant to the president of Ohio Northern university, speaking before the Kenton Chamber of Commerce, told his listeners that Ohio Northern's problem had reversed from one of scarcity to one of plenty. He said the university, which had at one time contemplated closing its doors because of lack of men students, was now confronted with the problem of what to do with them.

Because of the shortage of housing facilities in particular, the school had to turn down 300 applications this year.

STORE WILL OPEN NEW SALES ROOM

May Jewelry Co. Expands Quarters Here.

The May jewelry store will open its new addition next Wednesday, Sol Freed, president of May Jewelry, Inc., said today.

The new quarters adjoin the store's present location at 120 West Center street. The two rooms are separated by a partition through which an archway has been cut. The room formerly was occupied by Kennedy's pharmacy.

The addition will provide double the floor space of the store's former premises. The new quarters will be used as a sales room for an extended line of electrical appliances.

Mr. Freed said the present job is temporary and when building restrictions are lifted, the center partition will be eliminated. A basement sales room and a new front across the two-room premises will also be installed at that time, he said. The sales force will be expanded to 25 persons.

Mr. Freed has been at his present location 26 years.

THEIR FUTURE?

Will We Give Them the Best Schools We Can?

Today with our dollars shrinking so fast we face the necessity of voting more money for our school operating expenses and teacher's salaries or of penalizing our children with an ever lowering standard of education.

Marion citizens will not fail to provide the funds to keep our excellent teaching staff intact and thus help assure our youngsters' future.

Let's not penalize our children by lowering our present standard of instruction and let's not let Marion become a less desirable place to live. Vote "for" the 2-mill school levy and assure the future of Marion and its children.

Congressman Smith—
For Sound Government

REELECTION of Congressman Frederick C. Smith is the most constructive way that Eighth district voters can express themselves in politics this year.

The principal issue in the election nationally is numerical control of the house of representatives. A Republican majority in the new congress would give that party the right to elect a speaker, take over the committee chairmanships, and get things going. Congressman Smith will be notably qualified by experience, ability and sincerity to aid in this urgently needed work of governmental reconstruction.

That he will be reelected by a substantial majority we regard as certain because of the record he has made as a firm and consistent advocate and supporter of sound and sensible principles of government and an unswerving opponent of the program of governmental disruption, dictatorial rule and costly bureaucracy developed and fostered by the so-called New Deal.

Long before the present wave of concern over revelations that communism and other shades of destructive radicalism were well represented in Washington, even in official circles, and that agencies representing these threats to our democracy are now seeking more power and influence, Congressman Smith was attacking these evil forces and frequently voicing warnings in speeches both in and out of congress. Developments now substantiate all that he said in those early days when other congressmen less discerning and courageous were silent. This is a noteworthy part of the record which marks him as a congressman concerned first, last and all the time with the welfare of his country and one who can be counted on invariably to speak, work and vote accordingly.

He has performed valuable service as a member of the minority in congress, for without such fearless, fighting representatives of the people and proponents of sound government on the job during the era when the New Dealers were bent upon ripping out everything that had benefitted the people in the past, damage to the nation's structure of true democracy and stable economy built through many decades before New Dealism might have been greater and more difficult to repair.

Returned to congress as part of a Republican majority, he will help replace the program of disruption and disorder with one of construction and stability, the kind that will assure the sort of government which will take control away from the bureaucrats and crackpot hangers-on and return it to all the people.

Man of Few Words

MARSHAL STALIN, a man of few words, knows how to get maximum attention in the United States for his views. It is no accident that so many of them have been relayed to this country by the question-and-answer method. There is none better for a man of few words.

In his cryptic answers to the list of questions put to him by Hugh Baillie, president of United Press, Marshal Stalin reveals nothing startling. With due respect for Mr. Baillie's enterprise in getting the close-mouthed head of the Soviet Union to say anything at all, what he said would be a meager harvest in an ordinary press conference,, American style.

The most important revelation in his answers is his aversion to Winston Churchill, whom he places foremost among the "incendiaries of a new war." Asked what steps should be taken by the nations of the world to avoid a new war, Marshal Stalin replied it is necessary to unmask and bridle the "incendiaries." He also replied that Russia has 60 divisions in the West, instead of the 200 claimed recently by Mr. Churchill when addressing the house of commons.

The significance of Marshal Stalin's outspoken antipathy for Mr. Churchill is in the latter's political position. Mr. Churchill as prime minister of Great Britain was first to warn against Russian expansion into Europe; in meetings of the Big Three, Franklin D. Roosevelt took it upon himself to reconcile the other members of the trio. Before war began and long before the Soviet Union was attacked by Germany, Mr. Churchill was outspoken in his criticism of Russian communism as an ideology. With the war over, and the Labor party in power in Britain, the same criticism has been carried on in a different context by Prime Minister Attlee's government. What Marshal Stalin has said is, in effect, that the danger of another war lies in opposition to Russian foreign policy. It is the same thing Henry A. Wallace said in this country not long ago: The way to have peace with Russia is to let it do whatever it wants to do ON those terms, the Allies could have had peace with Germany, too.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Some Democrats Admit They'll Lose House Control.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—One eminent Democratic campaign contributor concedes privately the Republicans should run away with the house and perhaps even make the senate tag along slightly Tuesday. He also predicts Gov. Dewey will run so strong in New York that the Democratic senate seat there will be swept surprisingly from the grasp of Lehman.

A left-leaning Truman official similarly made a bet about two weeks before election at even money that the Republicans would not gain a majority of 18 seats in the house—thereby unwittingly conceding he expected them to get about 17.

A close Truman sympathizer made a bet at 3 to 1 that the Republicans would not get control of the senate, although he would not hazard any personal funds that his administration would hold the house.

But all this is not startling news to you, if you read this column Oct. 11 saying the Republicans might gain more than they had been claiming, pointing out there was a split in the union backing of the administration, and concluding with these words: "My election prediction is this:—The Republicans will gain firm control of the house perhaps by 16 or 17 votes, or more, and will come close to controlling the senate, perhaps within one or two votes. If the split among the unions eventuates at the polls, the scope of victory will be enlarged to the same extent as the split widens."

Poll Is Indefinite

All this was written before any polls were published or the ensuing investigations of political reporters around the country averaged up to about the same conclusion you read here first. Republicans then were timidly awaiting the Gallup poll, which said last week Republicans held 56 per cent of the national vote. Any Republicans who were waiting for this will have to wait longer. It is indefinite to the point of worthlessness. No one is running nationally this year, so the national popularity affords no detectable suspicion of how many seats the Republicans will gain or in what districts. It is too little too late, and merely broadly confirms better detailed prognostications offered by nearly every other authority earlier.

The knowing politicians do confess among themselves that some pro-Democratic reaction set in after Mr. Truman belatedly relaxed OPA controls — although they do not know how much. The Gallup poll says the gain was only 1 per cent nationally, which might or might not affect some close districts, presumably not.

These accumulations of evidence have caused the administration politicos to assume their defeatist attitude. Fingers are already being pointed around in various directions. The scalp of Democratic National Chairman Hannegan is being pointed to again. Although the call is feeble so far, it will swell into a roar if the expected happens Tuesday. Many southern Demos think Hannegan played too closely with CIO, while most Demo-congressmen will tell you the CIO ran itself out earlier and lacked the influence Hannegan expected. Others blame Mr. Truman's woeful muddling of the price-wage policies since he first astonishingly vetoed the congressional OPA bill last June. Still others contend he did not get the meat out soon enough, that he gave in too easily to labor, that his Wallace fiasco was a joke, etc., etc., etc.

Disunity Is Deep

The truth is far more penetrating. Not even a popular leader could have avoided suffering this defeatism in his party in this election. It is not due to any of the personalities or reasons suggested but to the deeper basic cause of disunity in the party and in the movement. Truman stood for CIO economic policies (spending, unemployment compensation, OPA, no strike curbs, etc.). Congress did not. These policies proved unpopular as soon as the war ended. Indeed his Democratic congress took the opposite stand on nearly every issue, trying to make itself more popular in the face of White House vetoes and threats. This split eventually reached down deeply into the unions, as well as the party, where it was finally realized the policies were unrealistic and contrary to public aspirations.

Truman and Hannegan tried to ride two horses going in opposite directions, with the usual result.

Twelve's Company But Thirteen's a Crowd

In Los Angeles, the city health department has ordered a hotel to evict 13 tenants who have been occupying the same room.

That's the trouble with the obvious solutions to problems like the housing shortage: First thing you know, someone will overdo it.

Thirteen people in one room... I hadn't heard of anything like that since prosperity came to the Class D leagues.

Occupation of those involved not being revealed, one can but wonder which they were, sardine canners or streetcar motormen.

Thirteen people in one room... By the time the last guy finished shaving in the morning, the first would have had five o'clock shadow.

And how did they sleep: In shifts or layers?

Apparently, the hotel manager hadn't thought anything about putting 13 guests in one room. He wasn't superstitious.

Ex-Office Boy Is British Boss

A. V. ALEXANDER

* * *

By ED CREAGH
Associated Press Writer

LONDON—Britain's new defense chief, the man who gives orders to admirals and field marshals, is a former office boy—a blacksmith's son with a grade school education.

He is also a veteran diplomat, an orator of almost Churchillian stature and a bona fide sea dog with a near record eight years as first lord of the admiralty.

A. V. (for Albert Victor) Alexander is his name. He is a genial story-telling, piano playing, chantey-singing man of 61. For many years he was a Baptist lay preacher.

Big Job Ahead

As minister of defense, a new cabinet post that parliament is creating, he has the job of coordinating the activities of the army, navy and air force and the scientific research behind them.

Thus the clerk who made $6 a week when he was married becomes boss of, among other things, the $120,000,000 atomic research program that Britain is undertaking.

Viscount Wavell, viceroy of India, summed up Alexander's career in verse when the new defense chief was in New Delhi as a member of the cabinet's Indian mission:

"When he was young he served his term
"As office boy in a leather firm.
"Then he ran co-ops so skillfully
"That now he's ruler of the king's navee."

He got into politics through the cooperative movement, the great groups of organized consumers who make up a large part of the Labor party's strength.

Churchill Retained Him

After two years as a co-op official he was elected to parliament—in 1922—and except for four years has been there ever since. He first became top sea dog at the admiralty in 1929.

Winston Churchill re-named him to the post during the wartime coalition and he continued to hold it when the Labor government came into power last year, but served increasingly as a diplomat as well.

At the Paris peace conference he substituted for a man who delivered milk in Bristol at the same time that Alexander was fetching tea for a Bristol office staff—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin.

His manner at Paris was Churchillian but his bluntness was Bevin's.

Peacemakers

Labor relations bureaus are being created as municipal services in New York and St. Louis, following establishment of similar units aimed at reduction of labor-management strike in Toledo and Louisville.

American Municipal Association reports the New York unit, composed of three men, has been put on permanent status with a budget of $60,000. The division was formed originally to aid the mayor in attempts to settle a truck strike.

In addition to helping settle or avoid strikes in general, the division will assist in handling relations between the city and its 150,000 employes.

The policy of the new unit will be to effect a long-range program designed to anticipate and prevent industrial strike throughout the city. The program is aimed at rectifying the too-frequent situation of the city government being asked to help solve a strike at the last minute when little or nothing can be done.

It will not be the policy of the labor relations division, however, to intervene in every labor dispute. Rather, the three-man unit will act primarily to shorten or prevent disturbances in key industries on which the health and welfare of New York residents depend.

The New York action occurred almost simultaneously with the establishment in St. Louis of an 18-member industrial relations committee designed to serve the same ends.

Ohio's G.O.P. Role in 1948

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—Even before the votes are counted, the battle lines are forming for the struggle within the Republican party which victory next Tuesday will initiate. The most conspicuous contender in this internecine free-for-all will undoubtedly be Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York. But from the political professionals all over the country comes the word, "Don't discount the Ohio crowd."

It is a fact of prime importance that every additional vote added to the Republican totals will increase the soundness of this sage advice. Governor Dewey, with his brisk manner and his gleaming eyes, is the sort of man the professionals line up behind when they feel they must in order to win. Ohio's former governor, John Bricker, all good fellowship platitudes, and Ohio's Senator Robert A. Taft, the most influential Republican in congress and no mean professional himself, are men of the type the professionals prefer when they think they have it in the bag. Judging by spot checks made her and there, there is an excellent chance that in 1948, one or the other will be the happy beneficiary of a real Republican sweep this year.

The average Republican voter would prefer leaders much closer to the middle of the road than the conservative, still - isolationist Taft or the Hardingesque Bricker, who regards his brother in arms as a regular radical.

Pew Favors Bricker

From Pennsylvania, for example, comes word that the obliging Joseph Pew, who has been picking up the tabs for the local Republican organization for many years now, has privately indicated an enthusiastic preference for Bricker in 1948. It is well known that in Illinois Colonel Robert R. McCormick, who also speaks with a loud check-book, has publicly declared that Governor Dewey is not an American.

To be sure, the aging Joseph Grundy and his colleague, Mason Owlett, have far more influence in Pennsylvania than Pew; while Governor Dwight Green probably retains more power than the Colonel in Illinois. These professionals have indicated no preference. But since their sharp distaste for Dewey is well known, there is every reason to suppose they will go along with the views of their good friends.

As for the south, the grand auction of southern politicians has not really started. But the Ohioans are already in position to buy up the cream of this dubious but useful crop when the time comes. That is one of the major meanings of the Ohio crowd's choice of a southerner, the Hon. Brazilla Carroll Reece, for chairman of the Republican national committee last year.

What is most miraculous of all, the Ohioans have already solved the problem of their embarrassment of riches—of their having two candidates on their hands. Since the time of Mark Hanna and before, Ohio has always bred the most professional of all Republican political professionals. In the best professional manner, a firm agreement has been reached between Senator Taft and Governor Bricker that for the present neither will compete with the other. For a while, in fact, they are to remain in the position of two horses entered for the same race by the same stable—both training, both taking their outs, and both going through trial workouts.

Depending on the workouts, one or the other will be chosen to run as chief contender when the times comes. As of today, the chieftains of Ohio organization probably prefer Taft, who is regarded as abler and more dependable, but the organization also considers that Bricker has more popular appeal.

Meanwhile, along about Jan. 1, the Ohioans will begin organizing support for their entry all over the country, with the proviso that the supporters will have their choice later on between the two contenders. An indication of their efficiency is to be found in the fact that one of the leading organizers is to be Representative Clarence Brown, state chairman, political godfather of both candidates, and one of the two or three most astute professionals in the whole Republican party.

As to the moral to be drawn from all this, it would seem to be reasonably obvious. In the United States, as in the world, the ultra-conservatives are gaining ground on the right just as the extremists are gaining ground on the left, and for the same reasons. They know precisely what they want and they organize to get it. In these days, the international of William Z. Foster is beginning to be paralleled by the international of Colonel McCormick.

Teeth Preservative

By The Associated Press

MADISON, Wis. — Milk may contain some unknown quantity—in addition to calcium—that helps prevent tooth decay, six University of Wisconsin biochemists report.

In their experiments, animals developed exceptionally fine teeth on a diet of mineralized milk, they said. This was not unexpected, for milk is high in protein and fat but low in fermentable sugar—a combination that promotes good teeth. But even when sugar was added to the milk to provide nearly half the diet's dry matter in the form of fermentable sugar, the animals still developed few cavities.

The results, the biochemists said, suggest the presence in milk of a specific but yet unidentified factor which helps protect teeth against decay.

It's Got To Be a Revival

THE scene is a Broadway producer's office.

Producer—We've just got to produce something this season, but I'm up a tree.

Partner—I never knew a time when it was so tough.

Producer—Who do we know who is DEAD?

Partner—The trouble with us is we don't know an author who is even sick.

Play Script Reader (summoned by button)—I've got something here that is really terrific. It's about a man and a woman who . . .

Producer (impatiently)—Get down to essential facts: How old is it?

Play Script Reader—Wait until you hear the plot. It begins with . . .

Partner—Only one thing counts in a plot, Miss Bollingsbelt—has it been properly aged?

Script Reader—You really ought to hear me through. This is about the war . . .

Producer—What does the author think we are, topical revue producers? Get down to business, Miss Bollingsbelt, and let's hear about something we really can produce this season.

Script Reader—Here's a society comedy you might like. It's only been done four times.

Producer—Four times! Are you nuts? Let that experimental theater group fool around with it!

* * *

Partner—I've been thinking about doing a musical.

Producer—We missed the boat on musicals. We let the competition get the jump on us.

Partner—How so?

Producer—They hired all the best estate executors, trustees and copyright researchers.

Partner (sadly)—Know what our trouble is as producers this season?

Producer—Sure. We don't get around and meet enough pallbearers'

* * *

Script Reader—Here's a musical you might like. It's by Gilbert and Sullivan.

Producer—Nothing doing. Modernistic stuff is out!

* * *

Script Reader—I just read a Greek drama. It was first done 2,000 years ago, and has been revived 208 times.

Producer—It won't do. Schmaiz, Harris and Glock are doing one 3,200 years old that has been revived 300 times.

(Phone rings. The partner answers).

Partner (to producer)—This fellow may have something. He's a very promising heir, and has the rights to a play an archeological expedition dug up in Thebes.

Producer—What's it about?

Partner—He says nobody today would know.

Producer (excitedly)—Take it!

If there is music at the UN sessions on the World Fair grounds, we suggest they open with "Whatta Ya Gonna Do?" Gromyko's entrance should be greeted by "I Guess I'll Get the Papers and Go Home," and his return, after each exit, might well be the signal for the orchestra to play "You Keep Coming Back Like a Song."

In closing a recent flop after a few performances, the producer, when asked by an uninformed theatergoer what its name was, replied "The Cain's Man Cometh."

Rarely have the charges in political campaigns in New York state been funnier than this year. Consider, for instance, the Democratic fury with Gov. Dewey because the state has been run so economically there is a surplus in the treasury and taxes have been cut!!! Can it be, horror of horrors, that a vote for anybody in modern America is a vote for solvency!!

What's What

By TRUMAN TWILL

No man should be blamed for not being able to keep track of his wife's old, new and middle-aged dresses if she has more than three. Men should be taken out of the pillory for inability to spot a new outfit when they see it, or to recognize some old faithful that has been sent to the cleaners and come back not looking a day over its age.

This goes for women's hats, even for their shoes. All a mere man is trying to do when he claps his fists in ecstasy and grunts, "No, that's the kind of rags I wish you'd wear all the time," when his missus has been wearing it all the time for the last year, is to be companionable.

And all he's doing when he refuses to note the old gal is bursting with pride over something special she had just added is play it safe. Knowing if he opens his yap he will have it stuffed full of recriminations, he keeps it closed and gets a hurt look for his caution.

How can a man know the difference between a new hat and an old hat when women switch them around like the Marx brothers doing a comedy skit, and when the chances are that what looks like a little number he has seen a thousand times is three year old with a five-year-old feather stuck on it?

All he'd get for his pains if he tried to keep track of the overhead decorations would be a recital of what went on in the millinery department and what Minnie said and Susie said and the clerk said and what she said to the clerk and with so many things to talk about it would be worth the time.

If women don't like the way men handle this proposition, they should quit weeping into their mascara and do something constructive. The obvious thing would be to tag each dress, pair of shoes and coat with a what's what about it, for the convenience of those who are expected to know—like exhibits in an antique show.

Naturally, the descriptions wouldn't be open to public view, not with so many cats around, but husbands would know where to look and could look there before saying, "My, my, that dress which you bought two years and three months ago at the Poozie-Pootzie Shoppe for only $16.95 plus tax and which was made over and dyed a different color last June certainly is one of my favorites. I can remember it when it was lettuce green, but I think it looks even better in this off-shade of morning-after brown."

The only reason women know what men are wearing is because men's hats go on forever and they wear the same suit day in and day out, until the women sneak it into the clutches of some worthy charitable enterprise to get rid of it. It isn't that women are smarter, they just don't have anything to keep track of.

O.S.U.'s Home Economics School Holds Jubilee

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov 1 — Ohio State university's vast school of home economics, which grew from a sewing and cooking class of 50 years ago, celebrated its golden jubilee today. The obserance will continue through Saturday.

From those two subjects the school gradually expanded until today its curriculum includes subjects ranging from food and nutrition to textiles and clothing, and from child development to institution management.

In 1896 Miss Perla Bowman called the university's first "domestic science" class to order at Hayes Hall. Miss Bowman, now Mrs. Perla Bowman Gibbs of Delavan, Wis, was expected back at Ohio State today to see the changes that have been made

Hundreds of alumnae and many home economics experts were in Columbus for the occasion. The official reunion of the school's 3,000 alumnae will be held Saturday.

Haul, Minus Card Loss, Left on Church Steps

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Nov. 1—Rev. W. E. Hakes, pastor of the Deer Park Baptist church, last night found two cigar boxes containing $307.40, mostly change, on the steps of his church. A note affixed to the boxes read:

"I lost $4.50 in a game. Here is the balance of the money."

Mystified, the minister carried his find to suburban Deer Park police station where Chief Richard Selz pulled out a report of a cafe burglary in which the loot was $311.90—in two cigar boxes.

Porter had planned to announce the closing of local boards and dismissal of their paid clerks at noon today, but leaks in the field forced the announcement late yesterday.

Once Employed 125,000

At the wartime peak of 1945, there were 5,661 local price and ration boards with 125,000 members and 110,000 additional volunteer workers

With the 10,000 reduction in personnel, OPA's staff will drop to about 24,000 persons, with many of these slated for dismissal as decontrol continues.

Latest additions to the decontrol list are a number of textile items classed as notions including collars, cuffs and neckbands for men's shirts; trouser and coat pockets, button hole banding and button hole tapes; knitted cuffs, waistbands and collars

These were added after OPA last night took ceiling tags off hats, millinery, handbags, neckties and about three dozen other clothing and apparel items, including football, baseball and other sports uniforms The agency said these items account for about 10 per cent of the nation's clothing bill.

Also freed were household scouring and cleansing powders (if they contain less than 5 per cent soap), a group of steel products, silver, radio tubes, and parts and numerous industrial products.

The expanding decontrol actions produced a bumper crop of tips and rumors across the nation Typical, and officially denied by OPA spokesman, was one that all prices except rent controls were to be junked when the agency's "master" list is announced next week.

MAN-HUNT ON IN BALTIMORE

Police Comb Waterfront in Search for Rooming-House Bombers.

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE, Nov. 1—A steady procession of detectives and uniformed policemen patrolled the Baltimore waterfront today in an intensive search for the perpetrators of the bombing of a rooming house wherein four merchant seamen lost their lives and five others were injured.

Police Commissioner Hamilton R. Atkinson, assuming personal direction of a round-up of every waterfront character "with whom we have ever had any trouble," described the blast as "one of the worst crimes in the history of the city."

Throughout the night detectives trooped into eastern district police station with a constant stream of suspects, most of whom were questioned and released.

Amid denunciations of the bombing by Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin, who described it as "mass murder," and other officials and labor leaders, the federal bureau of investigation was called upon to study two warning notes which police said were delivered before the bombing.

Jesse Rodriguez, proprietor of the rooming-house, said one of the notes was thrown through a window of the house last week attached to a monkey wrench. Police quoted it as follows:

"Stop rooming finks (labor spies) in your house, which is owned by Bethlehem Steel. This is your final warning."

Another clue being traced was a patrolman's story that he saw a man running from the scene after the explosion, about daybreak yesterday. And Atkinson announced: "We believe we have come up with the owner of the car which figured in the wrench-throwing episode."

The dead men were identified at the Johns Hopkins hospital as Manuel Balbero, Marco Tilio Espinoza, Paul Satanas and Ramon Romero. All were described as Cubans except Espinoza, a Honduran.

Police attributed the incident to tension growing out of the recent maritime strike, in which the manning of foreign-flag shipping was a point of controversy.

AUTO, TWO TRUCKS INVOLVED IN CRASH

Slippery Paving Blamed for Route 30-N Accident.

Slippery pavement was blamed for an accident on Route 30-N four miles east of Upper Sandusky Thursday at 10:15 p. m. involving a car and two large trailer-trucks.

Samuel H. Potts, 31, of Harlem Springs, O., told the state patrol he was traveling eastward and thought two trucks parked ahead at the side of the road were moving. When he realized they were parked, and applied the brakes, he said his car slid and crashed the rear truck, which collided with the one parked ahead of it.

Only person injured was Mrs. Francis Heffner of Lima, who suffered minor face lacerations. She was a passenger in the rear truck, the driver of which was her husband, 46, also of Lima. The driver of the front truck was Ralph McMillen, 40, of Lima. The front end of Potts' car was damaged but neither of the trucks was seriously damaged.

ROME, Nov. 1—Carmine Bottino, chief of the political section of Rome's police, today identified one of the two persons held for questioning about the bombing of the British embassy yesterday as "a man of Polish origin."

Thus far, Bottino added, investigation of the explosion uncovered "nothing definite".

Two time bombs in black suitcases left in a doorway of the embassy caused the blast.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche and his Republican opponent, Thomas J. Herbert, kept the verbal sparks flying Thursday night in Ohio's hot political campaign.

Lausche told audiences in Mansfield and Fremont that the administration of former Gov. John W. Bricker, in which Herbert was attorney general, left a "welfare department devoid of mercy and humane compassion," a liquor department "stocked with 65 per cent of rum and brandy against a normal percentage of about 2½ per cent," and local governments and local governments that had been "practically driven into bankruptcy" by an insufficient share of state revenue.

The governor defended his own administration vigorously in its treatment of veterans and praised accomplishments of his welfare department in providing "new accommodations for 4,000 mentally ill persons" and giving "them sunshine and humane treatment" in place of "dark, evil dungeons familiar to medieval times."

Sees Lausche Desperate

In Cleveland, Herbert described assertions by Lausche that Republicans are trying to buy the election as "the charges of a desperate candidate."

"The present governor said his campaign would necessarily be limited in funds and in time," Herbert said, but "this week he is on the radio constantly and thousands of dollars worth of campaign literature printed and distributed from his headquarters at the Carter hotel in Cleveland is now being received by voters throughout the state."

Herbert declared the governor has more employes on the state payroll than at any time during the preceding six years of Republican state administration. He said the state payroll of 18,849 in 1944 had been increased to 25,104.

"Financed by Taxpayers"

"While my opponent charged us with 'buying' the election, he is aware that his campaign is being financed by the taxpayers," Herbert said. Government-owned equipment, government-paid employes and publicity experts, government-owned cars — all these and every other known New Deal device is being used in a vain effort to thwart the desires of the people to regain their freedom."

In campaigning for U. S. senator, Democratic incumbent James W. Huffman spoke with Lausche in Fremont and Mansfield, repeating his slogan that the voters' choice is: "Advance with sound progress or retreat with reaction."

Huffman contrasted an income of "approximately 170 billion dollars with 58,500,000 persons employed" in the nation this year and 1932 when he said the Republicans' record was "14,000,000 unemployed and income of only 42 billion dollars."

Bricker Charges "Reaction"

John W. Bricker, Republican nominee for U. S. senate, declared in a radio address at Cleveland that the New Deal "instead of advancing with liberalism has set this nation on the road toward reaction."

The New Dealers, Bricker said, "are indeed the arch reactionaries" and "would make our American society into a regimented and manipulated economy. They are trying to convert our American system into an old world system which makes government the master of men."

Bricker defined "liberalism in government" as "freedom," and added that "the supreme achievement in freedom is the constitutional republic of the United States."

Under the Democratic administration, Bricker said, "bureaucrats make governmental policy, administer that policy, exercise the judicial functions of interpreting that policy and are legislature, administrator, prosecutor, judge, jury and sheriff all rolled up in one."

Colorado Landlords Debate "Freeze-Out"

By The Associated Press

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Nov. 1 — The El Paso County Landlords association today considered a suggestion by its attorney, Frank Mobley, that they protest rent ceilings by shutting off the gas and "freezing out" the tenants.

Mobley told the association last night that a legal loophole for the proposed freeze-out is a provision of the state law that says a tenant no longer is a renter after he is given 10 days notice.

"Give them 10 days notice and then shut off their gas," Mobley told the association.

He proposed that each landlord take it upon himself to instigate the freeze-out, saying that "by taking individual action we won't be violating any law."

Diplomats Ready To Tackle Peace Pact With Nazis

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The four-power foreign ministers council, having worked its way through some of the European problems which revolve around Germany, are expected to get down to that explosive nuclear core itself this month.

Secretary Byrnes makes it clear that the United States puts immediate occupation necessities ahead of final peace terms and is calling into conference General Clay and his civilian adviser, Robert Murphy, who have been running things for us at that end.

The problems of making peace for Germany probably will follow closely the lines of those already encountered—fear on all sides that one or more of the powers will attempt to use Germany as a pawn to extend selfish interests; France's desire to take control the Saar and the Ruhr which three times in 70 years provided the weapons for attacks upon her; Russia's desire to spread Communism and economic hegemony in every area touched by her sphere; Britain's desire to keep Germany out of Russia's hands and to avoid German commercial competition; and America's desire to stop the militarism and the balancing, or unbalancing, of power in central Europe which has drawn her into two costly wars in 30 years.

Committed to Recovery

All of the nations except France are more or less committed to ultimate rehabilitation of Germany as a whole, with the exception of the Russo-Polish fait accompli in eastern Germany. France would like to see the Ruhr become an international industrial pool largely controlled by herself, and wants to incorporate the Saar.

Russia would like to see the same sort of "friendly" government in Germany as she has established in the middle European countries, and is working desperately toward that end in her own zone, both through political parties and through collectivization of this rich agricultural area.

Britain is determined that this shall not happen to Germany as a whole, and that Germany shall be held to a non-military economic level.

The United States, as evidenced by its actions in its own zone, wants the occupation continued until denazification and democratic educational programs shall have had full opportunity to do their work, and then would like to see Germany emerge as more of an agricultural country, but with industry restored as far as possible without reviving military potentials—a whole country and not a hothouse for the seeds of war.

Ruhr Stays With Reich

A demilitarized Ruhr would thus remain an integral part of the Reich. Some deal with France over the Saar may not be out of the question, however. The end of German cartels is an important part of this policy, accompanied by integration of German economy into that of Europe as a whole rather than permitting too much competition.

The present campaign for economic fusion not only of the American and British zones, but of all zones, is a part of this picture. Also involved is the American desire to be rid of an estimated expenditure of $200,000,000 annually for supplies in her zones which should come from other parts of Germany

This is the background.

What will develop out of it remains to be seen. The prospects seem to be:

Poland To Keep Silesia

That Poland will keep Silesia.

That Russia will delay, obfuscate, and generally prevent, at least for a long, time, reincorporation of her zone into a United Reich.

That the United States and British zones will darw closer and closer together during the long negotiations until they become difficult to reunite with the communized zone even if that becomes possible. That this bloc will include the Ruhr, which will more and more tend to complement rather than compete with with British industry, but that the Bavarian economy, being almost entirely completitive with America's, will not be integrated into that of the U. S.

That France will retain the Saar.

If such a situation does develop during an occupation prolonged by inability of the powers to agree, the ultimate Balkanization of what was Germany is not too hard to envision.

Halloween "Shindig" Held by Club Co-Ed at Y

Corn shocks, autumn leaves, pumpkin faces and other Halloween motifs were combined with black and yellow streamers to decorate the Club Co-Ed for the annual "Halloween Shindig" last night at the Y. M. C. A. Lights were dimmed with hangings of black and yellow crepe paper and a large skeleton suspended from the ceiling added to the spookiness of the hall. In front of the bandstand, which was banked with corn fodder, was a large pumpkin face.

Approximately 400 attended the dance, costumed in old clothes. Music for dancing from 9 to 12 was furnished by Ray Crispin and his orchestra, who completed the picture by donning old clothes in keeping with the party theme.

During an intermission a guessing contest was won by Mary Matson, and Stanley Garey was consoled. Entertainment included a "beauty contest" staged by William Renwick, Warren Meister, Douglas Duer, Richard Bigley, Robert Reidenbaugh, Richard Armbruster and Gene Andrews.

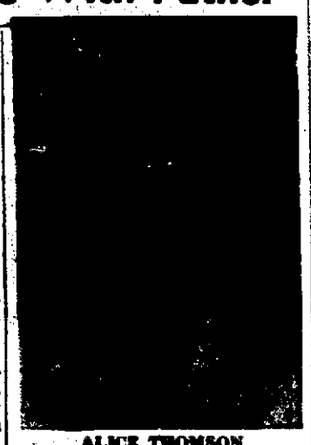
A program featured a mock wedding, the background for which was a large vase of flowers and two seven-branch candelabra centering the living room. Actress Born In Manhattan Is Co-Star In "Life With Father"

New York City is full of actors, but curiously enough very few of them are born there. On the whole this group of people is composed of the stage-struck and ambitious youths who came from all the other cities of America to the big town to try their luck. Alice Thomson, on the other hand, who will be seen in one of the two leading roles in "Life With Father" when it is seen here on Wednesday, Nov. 6, at the Palace Theater, is one of those rarities, a Manhattan-born actress.



ALICE THOMSON

Like most New Yorkers she went about the business of growing up without doing much sightseeing around her home town. She has never been up the top of the Empire State building and she climbed the Statue of Liberty only under strong protest when her parents took her there.

Stage Was Her Goal.

Because of parental opposition she ran away to go on the stage. First she became a dancer on the grueling vaudeville circuit that involved five or six performances a day with no chance to stop overnight between towns. But Miss Thomson throve on such hard work and by gradually improving her lot until she was a specialty dancer won her family over to her point of view about the stage.

From dancing it was but a short step to straight acting. After a period in stock companies she appeared on Broadway in such plays as "The Country Wife" with Ruth Gordon, "Behind Red Lights" and "A New Life" with Betty Field. She also toured at great length throughout the country in "On Borrowed Time."

Many summer theaters have seen Miss Thomson. There she has appeared with Gloria Swanson, Elissa Landi and Lilian Harvey. One memorable summer she spent at the famous Elitch's Gardens Theater in Colorado, and it was here that she first met her subsequent husband, Brandon Peters, who also plays her husband — Father — in "Life With Father."

Entertained Service Forces.

During the greater part of 1945 Miss Thomson with her husband toured the Pacific in a USO version of a successful comedy, "Junior Miss." The pair's experiences were so unique as to be worth a separate story.

Miss Thomson's radio appearances have included the "Mr. District Attorney" programs, and she has been seen in the "March of Time" film series.

CARTOONIST TALKS TO KIWANIS CLUB

Illustrates Address on Soil Conservation.

Tom M. Kelly, widely known cartoonist and lecturer who has given more than 4,000 illustrated lectures on conservation during the last 13 years, was featured speaker at the Kiwanis club meeting Thursday noon at Hotel Harding. Ben T. Wiant, vice president of the Marion Civic Planning Association, also gave a short talk on the school two-mill levy which will be voted on Nov. 5.

Mr. Kelly represents the U. S. soil conservation service in eight midwestern states with headquarters at Milwaukee, Wis., of which the Ohio State Soil Conservation Service is a part. His subject was "Soil and Water Conservation" and he drew cartoons for illustration. In his talk, Mr. Kelly urged that the water supply be conserved and asked that every one take an interest in this. He congratulated the farmers in Marion county who are members of the soil conservation league as it is becoming more active.

He illustrated and showed the lack of effectiveness of water as it flows downward over a field. It flows faster and destroys the plant life which is in the lower portion of a farm locality.

Mr. Kelly was introduced by Paul D. Smith who was program chairman for the month.

Guests were Marvin Pearce of Fremont, J. W. Peck of Astoria, O., L. W. Whitman of Columbus, and R. W. Hecker, Clyde W. Hinamon, C. W. Baldinger, H. H. Berringer, Maxwell Bigham, W. L. Williams, Harley Mayers, Victor Kreis, and Sperry Long, all farmers of near Marion. Also present were Arthur A. Smth, county agricultural agent, D. T. Mills, superintendent of county schools, and E. E. Holt, superintendent of city schools.

Galion Engineer Once Slav Prisoner Says Russia Rules

Robert Burnup, an employe of the Galion Iron Works who, while on leave of absence with UNRRA, was held by Yugoslavia on an espionage charge, but later released, took issue yesterday with Premier Stalin's recent statement that Russia had no troops in Yugoslavia, the Associated Press reported.

"Russia controls the whole country," Burnup said in an interview at Independence, Mo. He is home there resting before returning to his job as a construction engineer and sales representative at the Galion Iron Works.

"Russian police are thick in Belgrade, and they are active," he said. "Stalin said Tuesday that 'there are no Russian troops in Yugoslavia.' Well, maybe there are no soldiers, but Russian officers daily train squads of the Slav army. I watched them march their outfits past my apartment."

Burnup admitted he was curious while in Yugoslavia. His mission was to teach Slavs how to use heavy machinery sent them by the UNRRA. Some mornings, he said, he would go to work to find that the equipment had disappeared.

"I asked questions," he added. "That was wrong."

Burnup has been employed by the Galion Iron Works since October, 1945, company officials said. He was in service as a captain in the engineers and served in the Aleutians.

He was loaned by the company to UNRRA in March for a six-month overseas tour of duty. He is expected to return to Galion next week. He makes his home with his wife and family in Independence and works out of there, covering five western states. He has spent only about three months in Galion during a factory training period.

He is a graduate of Missouri School of Mines.

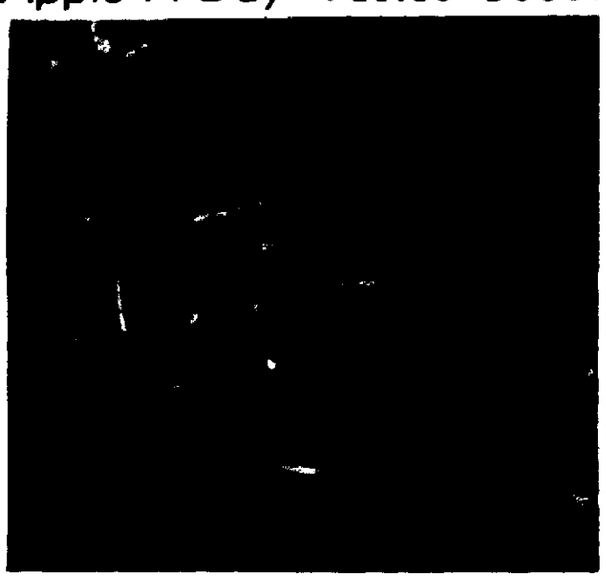
Apple A Day—Tastes Good!



APPLESAUCE-RAISIN BREAD PUDDING.. Grand finale

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

It's wonderful, isn't it, that this year we have a really good crop of apples—way over the skimpy yield that turned up last year.

Applesauce is the base for many fine desserts and in these sugar-short days it should be sweetened after it is cooked. Core the apples, but do not peel them. Cut into eighths; add a little water (about half a cup for 6 apples), a few whole spices (stick cinnamon, cloves and all-spice) and simmer until apples are soft. Put through a food mill or a sieve. Then sweeten to taste.

Applesauce-Raisin Bread Pudding

3 cups applesauce, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, ¾ cup seedless raisins, 5 slices bread, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, ¼ cup sugar.

Combine applesauce, lemon juice and raisins. Trim crusts from 2 slices of bread. Spread remaining slices with 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, then cut into cubes. Cut crusts in small pieces and add. Spread trimmed slices with remaining butter and cut in half, diagonally. Combine cinnamon and sugar. Put half the applesauce mixture in a greased casserole; top with bread cubes; sprinkle with half the cinnamon and sugar mixture. Top with remaining applesauce mixture. Arrange buttered bread triangles on top, sprinkle with remaining sugar. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees 30 minutes. Yield 8 generous servings.

Apple-Mince Pie

1 package pie crust mix, 2½ cups sweetened applesauce, 1½ cups prepared mincemeat, 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine.

Line a 9-inch pie pan with pastry. Combine applesauce, mincemeat and melted butter or margarine. Fill pie pan. Top with remaining pastry, rolled thin and slashed in the center. Trim. Press edges together. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) 25 minutes.

Baked Apples With Sausage Stuffing

½ pound pork sausage meat, 1 cup diced celery, ½ cup minced onion, 6 cups small bread cubes, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 cup boiling water, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning, 6 baking apples, 6 teaspoons currant jelly.

Combine sausage, celery and onion in a frying pan. Cook over low heat until sausage is browned and celery is tender. Add sausage mixture to bread cubes, saving drippings in pan. Blend flour with drippings; add boiling water gradually. Cook over low heat, stirring, until smooth and thickened. Pour over sausage-bread mixture. Add parsley and poultry seasoning. Core apples. Peel about a quarter of the way down. Fill centers with some of the sausage mixture and top with currant jelly. Pile remaining stuffing in center of baking dish and arrange apples around it. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about an hour, or until apples are tender.

Northwestern Out To Maintain Undefeated Status

Must Whip OSU To Keep No. 1 Position in Big Nine Loop

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 1—Undefeated Northwestern will be battling to maintain its position as the No. 1 football team in the Western conference title race tomorrow when the Wildcats (2-0-1) entertain Ohio State (1-1-1) at Dyche stadium.

Three other conference games are on the program. Illinois and Iowa will fight it out for a slice of the championship at Iowa City; Minnesota thumped last week by Ohio State 39 to 9, and still after its first league victory, plays host to Michigan, and Purdue observes homecoming at Lafayette against Wisconsin.

In a non-conference game Pittsburgh travels to Bloomington to meet Indiana.

Sticks with Starters

Northwestern Coach Lynn Waldorf said "we will go with the team that has started all recent games." The squad has drilled all week on how to conduct itself ably whenever Ohio State is in possession of the ball. They rounded out game plans with a final tune-up against Buckeye plays and final rehearsal of their own pass plays.

After a brisk hour workout at Columbus yesterday Coach Paul Bixler said a shortage of reserve guards may cause him to dip into the junior varsity for a replacement. In other positions, however, three key second-stringers were ready to hop off the injured list. Those held out of the Minnesota game but expected to play against Northwestern are halfback Mike Cannavino, center Howard Duncan, and quarterback Dick Palmer,

Other Big 9 Notes

Around other Big Nine camps

Illinois—As the 36-man squad departed for Iowa City a new starting lineup appeared ready to take the field Saturday. The ends will be Jim Valek and Sam Zatkoff; tackles, Lou Agase and Bob Cunz; guards, John Wrenn and Alex Agase; center, Mac Wenskunas. . . . Coach Ray Eliot said the backfield would remain unchanged

Iowa—The Hawkeyes took a final look at the plays Illinois is expected to use against them and then spent some time in oiling their own offense. . Coach Dr. Eddie Anderson gave attention to a special aerial game he has worked out.

Michigan—A traveling squad of 38-players left by train after yesterday's workout. Another practice session was booked for Minneapolis today. The Minnesota game will be the first one away from home for the Wolverines. . . . Coach Fritz Crisler said the squad was in fine physical shape for the annual battle for the "Little Brown Jug"

Minnesota—The Gophers went through a short outdoor workout before retiring to the field house for a secret study of their defensive plans. A capacity crowd of 59,000, fourth largest in the history of Memorial stadium, will watch the 37th battle between Minnesota and Michigan. . . . Ends Ernie Gagne and Herb Hein, and tackle Dean Widseth were still out of uniform because of injuries and trainers said it was doubtful whether they would see action against Michigan

Purdue—In their last heavy drill before the homecoming game with Wisconsin, the Boilermakers turned up their aerial offense. Quarterbacks Bob DeMoss and John Galvin were going the passing.

Wisconsin — Because of the Badgers' large list of injuries three men are making their first football trip for the game with Purdue. All of them—quarterback Ashley Anderson, fullback Dave Nettesheim, and guard Gordon Surber—are expected to see action Saturday.

Indiana—The Hoosiers' starting left end against Pittsburgh was uncertain. Abe Addams' hand injury still gave him trouble Coach Bo McMillin said Frank Hoppe, who was a starting end in 1942 before going into service, might get the nod.

MT. GILEAD WHIPPED AT FREDRICKTOWN

MT GILEAD—Playing at Fredricktown yesterday afternoon Mt Gilead lost their fifth game of the season 20 to 12. This gives them a record of five losses, two wins, and a tie Their next contest will be a Mid-State league game against St Mary, the final tilt for each squad.

Fredricktown opened up in the first period, scoring twice and making both of their points after After driving from the 50 left half Barton scored from four yards out. Fullback Postle passed to Baryon for the point. Postle took the scoring lead by ramoling 55 yards and bisecting the uprights

Mt. Gilead scored in the second quarter on a run by Nelson Campbell. Pete Campbell's attempt at the placement was no good.

Fredricktown again scored in the third quarter, right half Moore lugging the pigskin eight yards. This tally came after Mt. Gilead was forced to kick from their own end zone, Fredricktown starting the drive on the Mt Gilead 35. Postle's kick was blocked.

In the final period Mt Gilead started on their own 22. Nelson Campbell sparking a drive to the host's 35 with a 30 yard run and then scooting over from that point Pete Campbell's attempted conversion was blocked.

Shorn of Lustre, 10th Pimlico Race Set Today

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE, Nov. 1—Shorn of much of its sporting lustre by the absence of many 1946 turf leaders, the tenth running of the Pimlico special today figures as another golden opportunity for Mrs Ethel D. Jacobs' Stymie to close the gap on the world's money-winning record of Whirlaway.

Only four will face the issue in this mile-and-three-sixteenths, winner-take-all affair, Stymie, King Ranch's Assault, Mrs Helen Leibowitz Turbine, and J. R Bradley's Bridal Flower

The sudden withdrawal of William L. Brann's Maryland-bred filly, Gallorette, and Stephen Sanford's Round View moved Assault into the position as chief threat to Stymie and the $25,000 prize for the winner.

ALL-AMERICA FUTURE BOOK

GEORGE CONNOR
Notre Dame Tackle

The season's No. 1 football game between unbeaten Army and Notre Dame on Saturday, Nov. 9, looks like a battle between All-American grouts.

One of the Army ends, either Hank Foldberg of Dallas or George (Barney) Poole of Gloster, Miss., figures to make the 1946 All-America while Notre Dame has a very good prospect in George (Moose) Connor, a six-foot-three Chicago tackle who last season starred at Holy Cross.

Long-Delayed Prexy Grid Jerseys Arrive

The 22 new red jerseys which were first worn by the Harding squad in the Lima South game arrived as the result of an order placed last December, school officials said today. Also ordered last December were 22 white jerseys which have yet to arrive.

The jerseys which the clubs have now are red with large white block letters and they make for considerable improvement in the team's appearance as well as making identification of the players easier. Also the few old red jerseys which the team has are not so much different as to present a contrast when a mixture results on the playing field Numerous other items are on order but have not yet arrived.

Orders for equipment for next fall will be sent in this winter However due to the present conditions, the equipment may not arrive until after next year's season is under way.

Ashland's Gridders Prep for Kenyon Tilt

ASHLAND, O., Nov 1.—Coach George Donges sent the Ashland College Eagles through a strenuous workout yesterday in preparation for the invasion of Kenyon college Saturday afternoon in an Ohio conference game

Kenyon, which has dropped all three of its games this season, is expected to provide stiff opposition for the injury-riddled Ashland eleven The Eagles, with two defeats and a tie, will seek their third victory.

Kenny Funk, captain and all-Onio halfback, probably will see some service although not starting. Funk received an injured knee in the Wittenberg game.

DUROCHER SHOWS UP FOR COLUMBUS TALK

"The Lip" Silent on Mysterious Confad with Rickey.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, Nov 1—Leo Durocher, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, came here suddenly yesterday for a mysterious meeting with Branch Rickey, his general manager, but refused to disclose whether he had signed a new Brooklyn contract, why the meeting was held, or even where.

Grinning with some sort of a big secret, Durocher told reporters that he had "no comment" on all questions regarding his own status with the Dodgers

He did say, however, that he had not been approached by his old boss, Larry MacPhail, with an offer to manage the New York Yankees. The Yankees recently signed Durocher's coach, Chuck Dressen, to an undisclosed post despite a claim by Rickey that Dressen had an agreement not to leave the Dodgers for anything less than a manager's post.

SIGN FOR BOXING BOUT

By The Associated Press

YONKERS, N. Y., Nov. 1—Tony Janiro of Youngstown, O., and Freddie Graham of New York have signed for an eight-round welterweight bout here Monday night.

COLUMBUS HILLTOP TEAM HERE TONIGHT

Columbus Hilltop A. C.'s will be guests of the Marion Safety Cab A. C.'s at the Harding stadium for 60 minutes of gridiron mayhem starting tonight at 8:30.

Marion's semi-pros are out to put on a scoring show after a week's practice devoted to coordinating the movements of the ball carrier with his interference. The team is dissatisfied with its showing in the yards gained statistics and is out to improve. Last week they gained 88 yards rushing from scrimmage and to offset that they went backwards for a total of 40 yards thus chalking up the not too impressive net of 48 yards.

The team is good defensively, holding the Dayton squad last weekend to 77 yards total gain and forcing them back 26 yards. However, a holding performance doesn't bring victories.

The Cabbies are not lacking altogether in scoring punch as was shown in their beating Alliance 19 to 6 and downing Galion 12 to 7. The best piece of running turned in by the Marion team was against Galion when Ed Simmons returned a punt 70 yards to tally the first score of the season against the Vet Cubs.

The Hilltoppers boasting both a heavy line and backfield, will probably bring a strong defensive team to Marion tonight thus making it plenty tough for the Marion offense to produce as it would like to.

OHIO HORSE WINS

By The Associated Press

WESTBURY, N. Y., Nov. 1—Hogden, three-year-old bay colt owned by McKinley Kirk of Washington Court House, O., and driven by Ernest Smith, won the second one-mile dash of the featured trot last night at Roosevelt Raceway, covering the distance in 2:09¼ and paying $11.90.

Nel Stewart Wins Armory Mat Bout

Nel Stewart last night on the Army mat defeated Violet Vlan, taking two out of three falls. Nel won the first fall in nine minutes with a body slam and body press. Violet came back to floor Stewart in one minute with an arm hold and body press. Stewart won the final fall after eight minutes with a head flip and body press.

In the other main go Steve Nenoff took the last two falls winning over Monty LaDue. LaDue took the first fall in 14 minutes with a reverse step over toe hold. Steve came back to win the second fall in nine minutes with a crab hold and gained the match with an arm twist after five minutes.

The preliminary boys, Dick Menton and LeRoy Smith, fought a tag match against Dick Levens and Jim Garvin which ended in a draw after 15 minutes.

Army, Notre Dame Tune Up With Weak 11's for Nov. 9

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 — Army and Notre Dame, looking ahead to next week's classic which brings the nation's two top football powers face to face, warm up against teams with unimpressive records tomorrow as other major elevens attempt to promote a semblance of order in the various conference campaigns.

The first November week-end of 1946 finds only a dozen major teams still in the all-victorious classes and not a single conference which can point to any one outfit as making a runaway of the title race.

Pennsylvania, Georgia, UCLA and Harvard, whom with Army and Notre Dame make up the select circle of unbeaten and untied teams, all face opponents capable of sending them to join the victim's of last week's major upsets — Tennessee, Texas and North Carolina State.

Army vs West Virginia

While Army tangles at West Point with a West Virginia team that lost to Pitt and Temple but won its other four starts. Notre Dame will move into Baltimore to test its guns against a Navy crew that has suffered four straight setbacks since squeezing past Villanova in its opener.

Pennsylvania, the country's No 3 team, risks its perfect record in an Ivy League game at Philadelphia against the Princeton Tigers, who dropped close decisions to Harvard and Cornell

Georgia pits its 5-0 record against an invading Alabama team, beaten once in six starts, in the Southeastern conference, where Vanderbilt will be at Auburn and Mississippi at Louisiana State for other important title tests.

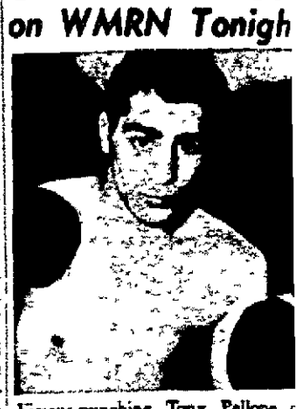
North Carolina, unbeaten but tied once, goes to Tennessee, the Southeastern leader which was embarrassed last week by another Southern conference club, Wake Forest A second interconference struggle in the south sends Georgia Tech to Duke

With Notre Dame playing in the East, the Midwestern scene will be dominated by four Big Nine struggles, any one of which could produce the ultimate conference champion Northwestern with a season's record of four wins and a tie, goes after third conference victory against invading Ohio State, which has win, a loss and a tie in league play.

Illinois goes to Iowa, with each owning just one conference defeat, while Michigan and Wisconsin, both still in the running visit Minnesota and Purdue, respectively. Indiana will entertain Pittsburgh in a non-conference go.

Missouri and Nebraska, tied with Oklahoma for the lead in the Big Six, will attempt to eliminate each other at Lincoln, with Iowa State going to Kansas State to see which occupies the conference cellar. Oklahoma and Kansas have non-conference dates the Sooners invading Texas Christian and the Jayhawks entertaining Oklahoma A. and M.

Greco-Pellone "Go" on WMRN Tonight



Vicious-punching Tony Pellone of New York faces the most important assignment of his career when he takes on Canada's welterweight champion Johnny Greco (above), in a scheduled ten-rounder at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Joltin' Johnny is a terrific slugger and an outstanding box-office act While he hasn't won all of his starts he has either kayoed or floored most of his opponents.

Pellone is plenty fast—both afoot and with his punches, which are adept His zipping left hook and damaging right uppercut, plus speed, have carried him to the front rank of the welterweight class To command consideration as a title contender at this time, however, he must wrap up the Canadian champ tonight.

Forecaster Sees Cadets, Irish Still Unbeaten This Weekend

By HAROLD CLAASEN
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 1—Army and Notre Dame have come this far without a blot on their 1946 football records and this forecaster sees another victory for each club tomorrow, the last tests before they tangle in New York Yankee Stadium on Nov. 9.

Army should have little difficulty with West Virginia, in what will be the final home appearance in grid suits for a dozen of the Cadet stalwarts. Although West Virginia nipped Syracuse last week it bowed to Pittsburgh, 33 to 7, earlier in the season.

Notre Dame, reported ready to unveil a scatback at Navy's expense, should have just enough trouble with the defensive-minded Midshipmen to smooth out any wrinkles. Despite Navy's losses in all major games this year, Baltimore's huge stadium is sold out for the game.

Other selections:

Penn over Princeton: The varied defenses Princeton showed in its loss to Cornell last week will have little effect on the Quaker backs.

Oregon state over Stanford: Off their scores with Southern California, Oregon state should triumph.

Georgia over Alabama: A battle of top-flight backs, Gilmer of Alabama vs Trippi of Georgia.

Columbia over Cornell: Not more than seven points should separate these two ancient ivy league rivals.

Northwestern over Ohio state: Consistency isn't a trait of the 1946 Buckeyes and they would have to be consistently good to defeat the Wildcats.

Tennessee over North Carolina: Yale over Dartmouth; Duke over Georgia Tech; Michigan over Minnesota; UCLA over St. Marys; Duke over Georgia Tech.

Mansfield Polishes Up For Toledo Waite Game

MANSFIELD, O., Nov. 1—A light signal drill yesterday concluded the Mansfield Tygers' preparations for their annual grid battle with Waite High school at Toledo tonight before an anticipated crowd of 14,000.

Coach Paul Snyder's 30-player squad is scheduled to leave for Toledo at 11:30 a. m. today. The Mansfield Tire's nine-coach football special will leave the Pennsylvania station at 5 p. m., with 500 Mansfield rooters and the senior high school marching band. The Luther league of the First Lutheran church has chartered a bus to take 37 of its members to the game.

Waite will be seeking its seventh victory in eight games. The Toledo school has compiled 236 points to 21 for its opponents.

The Tygers have outscored their opponents, 160 to 46 winning five games out of seven and playing two ties, with Massillon, 12 to 12, and Canton Lehman, 6 to 6.

LA RUE HALF-DOZEN TRIP PROSPECT 32-20

Victors Explode in 3rd Quarter To Overcome Early Lead.

Special to The Star

LARUE—The LaRue six-man football team exploded for four touchdowns in the third period to overcome a 14 to 6 half time lead to whip Prospect on the LaRue gridiron yesterday afternoon 32 to 20. The visitors grabbed a six pointer early in the game on a line plunge by Penry and after Wilson returned the kickoff into pay dirt for the first score for LaRue, Geiger went over on a line buck after a pass brought the ball near the goal line. Jay Long converted with a drop kick good for two points after the first trip across the goal.

After the half, LaRue began to run the ends and pass to open up the Prospect defense and four touchdowns resulted in quick order. Gillispie caught two passes from Ballinger and Wilson for long touchdown jaunts. Lightfoot went around left end for a score after a pass from Wilson to Tate brought the ball inside the five yard line. Ledman, running from fullback, scampered around right end forty yards for another TD. LaRue converted twice when Gillispie received a pass in the end zone and later Leeth repeated the act after a score.

With LaRue reserves playing the entire fourth quarter Prospect scored on a short line buck by Waxler after a long pass set the stage.

The win gave LaRue a record of three victories against five defeats for the season. Only one boy in the LaRue starting lineup will be lost by graduation, Loren Gillispie, stellar end and captain. Prospect finished the season with six defeats with one win in the school's first year of football.

OHIO UNIVERSITY TO VISIT OHIO WESLEYAN

Marion County's Merle Lashey May Get in Homecoming Tilt.

DELAWARE, O., Nov. 1.—The 31st chapter of one of Ohio's best gridiron traditions will provide the background for Saturday's clash between Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio University. The fact that it's homecoming for the Battling Bishops plus the idea of this being the rubber game of the tradition which goes back to 1895 sets the stage for what should be one of the best games in Ohio this weekend.

Ohio Wesleyan holds a tie game with Baldwin-Wallace and four victories with only one defeat as their season's record to date, only Wayne gaining a decision over the Red and Black. But the whole squad, from George Gauthier to Jim Flavin, Edwards gym veteran, wants to win over Ohio University in the worst sort of way.

The Bishops started preparation for Saturday's game with the possibility that their ace quarterback, Clint Stevenson, of Norwalk will be out with a leg injury. Without Stevenson, the game looks more like a win for the team from Athens for his loss definitely weakens Wesleyan.

Gauthier won't select his backfield until game-time. Saturday, still hoping that Stevenson is able to play. If he is, then Bob Brentlinger, main cog in the backfield and Norv Mathie at the halves and Tom Lotrecchiano at fullback will probably be starters.

Used only sparingly against DePauw, Merle Lashey of Marion county should be ready to divide the fullback assignment with Lotrecchiano and Tony McCleery.

Ohio Wesleyan hasn't defeated Ohio University since 1939. A crowd of 10,000 is expected to watch them try this year.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 1—Police of suburban Brook Park village today sought a motorist who reportedly used his automobile to twice ram a passenger he had just discharged. The victim, George Sabo, 50, was unconscious on arrival at a hospital last night. Police Chief Glen Worsley of Brook Park said witnesses related that after Sabo stepped from the car, the driver drove the car at him, backed up and tried again, running him against a telephone pole. The car then sped away, witnesses reported.

Indianapolis Rules Western Hockey Roost

By The Associated Press

The Indianapolis Capitals are once again in sole possession of the lead in the Western division of the American Hockey league.

The Caps broke a three-way tie for the top rung with Cleveland and Pittsburgh last night by downing the tail-end St. Louis Flyers, 5-2, in a riotous game at Indianapolis while Cleveland and Pittsburgh were idle.

Three major, 13 minor and a match penalty highlighted the game which saw the Caps score twice in the second frame to break a 1-1 tie and clinch the decision.

In the only other game, the New Haven Ramblers moved to within a point of the front-running Eastern division Hershey Bears by nosing out the Providence Reds, 6-5.

Bill Veeck, Awaiting Amputation of Foot, Still Talks Baseball

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 1 — Now that Bill Veeck, explosive president of the Cleveland Indians, has made a decision such as has blighted the spirit of the most rugged veterans, he's thinking of getting to the winter baseball meeting that opens in Los Angeles the first week of December.

Today, or perhaps tomorrow, surgeons at Cleveland Clinic hospital will amputate the right foot that Veeck has been dragging around in a cast much of the time since it was crushed by the recoil of an anti-aircraft gun on Bougainville, while he was serving with the Marines.

"I told 'em (the surgeons) to go ahead," Veeck said, almost airily, "and now it's their ball. When a nurse comes in here and starts brushing me up, I'll know it's getting on for that time.

"There's only one thing I'm sore about. That's the two and a half years I wasted trying to make this thing work when I could have been learning to use an artificial foot."

When he began talking about the winter baseball meetings he was asked whether he expected to attend.

"Oh sure, I'll make it allright," he replied. "They (the surgeons) understand that. This year for sure I've got to make it."

His insistence was tied up with his determination to transform the Indians into a first division team next year and later a pennant winner.

It'll be months, perhaps a year, before he can walk again. But he expects to fly to Los Angeles a month after the amputation and go through spring training and the 1947 season on crutches.

"But a year from now I'll be ready for dancing," he grinned.

If he had a mind to do it, he probably could be ready for tightrope walking in a year, too. He's that kind of a guy.

Big 9, Long Aloof From Bowl Tilts, Seems To Have Changed

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 1—The Big Nine—that designation for the shrunken Big Ten still doesn't sound right—is reported to have voted to permit its football teams to compete in the Rose Bowl, a contact not entirely without precedent, although for the last 18 years the Conference snootily refrained from any such post-season entanglements.

Back in the dim, dead days beyond recall two of the then Big Ten schools journeyed to Pasadena. In fact, Michigan played in the first Rose Bowl game in 1902, beating Stanford, 49 to 0. In 1921 Ohio State took a 28-to-0 licking from California New Year's day, and the league apparently decided it just wasn't right for its schools to go out there and come back with their pockets bulging with the so-called root of all evil. Besides, look what a job it was to count it.

Blow to Prestige

Whether or not the blow to Western Conference prestige had anything to do with the banning of such games we wouldn't know, but whatever the reasons advanced for prohibiting such competition they exist today the same as they existed when the rule went into effect. In other words, if it was wrong then it is wrong now. Maybe just a case of two wrongs making it all right.

Personally, we never could see any harm in such post-season events as the Rose, Sugar, Orange, Cotton and assorted other bowl games. Sure, they are commercial enterprises with a backdrop of civic advertising, but they are no less commercial than college football as it is today, and schools which charge $4.80 to see a group of boys playing a game which they supposedly are playing for the fun of it can't be too critical of such setups.

College football players, theoretically at least, do not get paid for their services, which bring in hundreds of thousands of dollars to the major schools. A trip to a bowl would seem to be small enough reward for such faithful service. Knowing boys, having strangely enough been one at one time, you can't tell us the average kid doesn't get a tremendous kick out of such a journey.

Fixed Part of Scene

From a broader viewpoint, bowl games have become a fixed part of the American sports scene, and provide conversation and interest for millions during the holiday lull when, without competition, everything would go blank. People might even have to talk about the state of the nation or discuss international affairs.

Aside from determining which is the better of two teams on a particular day, the games really mean nothing. They determine no championship. In fact, in theory there can be no such thing as a national college football champion.

It is generally conceded that the last couple of years Army had the best team in the country. It's all opinion, though, as Army never played Alabama, or the Oklahoma Aggies, or numerous other good teams. It would be physically impossible for all the good teams to play each other, and as long as they can't, any claims are based on pure personal opinions.

Notre Dame, another club for which bowl committees would throw out the welcome mat, with low bows, at last report was standing by its policy of no post-season games. Notre Dame also at one time was not so snooty, its 1925 team whipping Stanford in the Rose Bowl.

Anyway, if the report the Western Conference will permit Rose Bowl competition for its teams is true, football fans on the whole will rejoice. We've always thought that, week in and week out and year in and year out, the Big Nine played the toughest football in the country. It would get a chance to prove it.

TODAY'S YOUTH

More School, Health, Welfare Service Seen As Youth Need

The following is one of a series of six articles dealing with the problems confronting today's children who should be of interest to every American parent who hopes for a better world tomorrow.

* * *

By KATHARINE F. LENROOT
Chief, U. S. Children's Bureau
Written Exclusively for AP Newsfeatures

WASHINGTON—Our children are not going to wait to grow up while we argue about the ways and means of doing for them what we are all agreed needs to be done!

One, good schooling must be made possible for every child in this nation, no matter where he is living, what his race, or his family circumstances. That is a condition far from true today. As I see it, federal aid to education is essential of that goal is to be achieved.

Second, we must see to it that health and welfare services are likewise within reach of all children everywhere in the nation.

The same wide gaps in what is available in the way of schooling exist, too, as far as a child's chance at a healthy start in life are concerned. In some places the best that modern science and medicine have to offer is available. In other places—well, I know of no better way of indicating the level than to state that each year some 200,000 babies are born without a doctor in attendance.

In some of these cases no one is there to assist the mother and to take care of the child except an ignorant "granny" midwife. Those children, and thousands of others not much better off, are not likely to be seen by a doctor except when they are extremely ill, in many instances when it is too late.

Defects that might be overcome and illnesses that might be treated sap the strength and vitality of these thousands of children. Their loss is the nation's loss. They are the younger brothers and sisters of that large lot of young men—two out of five—who, when called up by Selective Service had to be rejected on physical or mental grounds.

Just as the health of such large numbers of children is today being neglected, so, too, is their welfare. The war with its dislocation of family life added to the problems and the war's end has not lessened the need. True, many families have been reunited. Thousands of others, though, are now going through a drastic readjustment, and finding a place to stay is not the least of their many problems.

Some 60,000 orphans of servicemen were left by the war. Other families have been broken by desertion, separation, and the divorce court. In still others parents are trying to reestablish home life under a cloud of misunderstanding, incompatability and family tensions. Many war migrants, moreover, are now reconversion migrants—a "problem" if they stay where their war jobs brought them, a problem to themselves often if they go back where they came from. Such a return is apt to be particularly hard on the children who have grown used to a wholly new way of life.

These facts and others were laid before Congress at its last session. As a small start, and it can be counted only as that in the face of the country's unmet need, Congress then almost doubled the money available under the Social Security program for maternal and child health and child welfare services. The total appropriations for these services is now $22,000,000. The significance of that action lies not in the amount, for it will have to be stretched far and stretched thin, but in the evidence that something is going to be done for the children.

We with our great resources cannot permit another generation of the nation's youth to grow up in neglect. There must be no let-up in our efforts until we have brought within reach of all the fullest possible opportunity for good health, good schooling, good citizenship.

CANCER GROUP MAPS WORK FOR FUTURE

Reports Given at Luncheon Meeting of Society.

When a luncheon meeting of the Marion County Society for the Control of Cancer was held in Hotel Harding Wednesday, reports were given, and it was voted to buy two new educational moving picture films on the subject of cancer. Mrs. H. K. Mouser, president, was in charge.

In a report on the state cancer control meeting held in Columbus recently, it was announced that Marion was listed as outstanding for operation here of one of the three recognized cancer detection clinics in the state. The cancer clinic at City hospital is open on Thursday each week, and to date 249 persons have been examined since opening of the clinic a little more than a year and a half ago, it was announced. In the report on the clinic's work it was stated that 38 possible cases have been found and eight biopsies, cancer operations, performed. Dr. A. E. Morrison recommended that the society purchase new equipment for the clinic, including a spotlight, sheets and gowns, and a sigmoidoscope, device for detecting cancer in the sigmoid, a portion of the lower bowel.

The reports on the state meeting were made by Mrs. Mouser and Mrs. George Planck, and by Dr. Morrison who reported on a panel discussion on cancer control in which he took part at a session of the state meeting.

Available to the community at no charge, the films which will be purchased are "Time To Live," a narrative picture and "The Miracle Money," a picture built on the "crime does not pay" format, it was announced. Mrs. Mouser reported that several clubs and organizations in the county have asked for speakers and films for health meetings, and expressed the hope that many more clubs, Granges, farmers' institutes, lodges and other groups will arrange for their use.

MARKET RALLY HITS PROFIT TAKING SNAG

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 1—The stock market rally encountered profit taking today although a wide assortment of leaders managed to achieve further substantial progress.

An early runup lost headway for a while when cotton futures cut initial advances of $10 a bale. The staple then rebounded and shares hardened. Brokers suggested that many customers intended to take a lengthy weekend holiday and trimmed accounts accordingly. Markets will recess Tuesday for the election and a number of clients apparently decided to sip the sessions of tomorrow and Monday. Earnings and dividends continued to aid selected issues but were ignored by others.

Dealings slowed for an interval after an active first hour. A few "thin" issues tacked on 4 to 11 points with a minimum of sales. Near the fourth hour plus signs were plentiful.

Broad movers included Coca-Cola, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak and Du Pont. Ahead were Union Pacific, Pennsylvania Railroad, Great Northern, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, J. I. Case, American Can, Union Carbide, Johns-Manville and U. S. Gypsum.

American Telephone touched a new 1946 low but recovered.

Bonds were relatively steady. Cotton revived after midday when considerable realizing had been absorbed. Grains improved.

Resistant in the curb were American Central Mfg., Catalin, Middle West Corp. and Bartom Steel.

Bethlehem Steel, on the big board, opened a bit into up a 1,500-share block, off 2¼ points, following the company's [illegible] business compilation which [illegible] Wall Streeters thought was a trifle below [illegible] stock eventually [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

TEAMSTERS UNION CLEARED OF LIBEL

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—The AFL International Teamsters Union was clear today of a charge that it libeled former naval Lt. Randolph Dickins Jr., as an aftermath of the "battle of the Statler Hotel."

A district court jury of eight men and four women returned the verdict absolving the union and its president, Daniel J. Tobin, after five hours deliberation yesterday.

Trial of the case, in which Dickins asked $200,000 damages for what he contended were libelous remarks in the union's official publication, started last week. The article Dickins took issue with accused him and former Lt. Commdr. James H. Sudderth, who dropped a similar libel suit, of being "under the influence of liquor" and making profane remarks about the late President Roosevelt.

The "battle" was a fist fight following a union dinner at which Mr. Roosevelt spoke in 1944.

Thomas J. Bradley, counsel for Dickins, announced he will ask the court of appeals to reverse the verdict. He told a reporter the jury failed to understand the evidence.

CHINESE NATIONALS STEP UP OFFENSIVE

By The Associated Press

PEIPING, Nov. 1 — Chinese government armies, increasing the tempo and range of their civil war, rushed vanguards to within 33 miles of Dairen today, encircled 100,000 fiercely fighting Communists in Chefoo, and engaged their countrymen in half a dozen other sectors.

The pro-government Jih Pao said vanguards reached Pulantien, only 33 miles north of Dairen on the border between Manchuria and Kwantung peninsula. Their objective is to cut off the Liaotung peninsula Communists from the Manchurian mainland. The Nationals had driven south down the Mukden-Dairen railway.

Government sources previously said Gen. Tu Li-ming's troops, fresh from capturing Antung, would not menace Dairen itself, but would establish a 30-mile safety zone around that Russian-occupied open port.

There were these other developments:

Nationals striking at Chefoo and the Shantung peninsula to cut off the Reds' Yellow Sea route to Manchuria approached the suburbs of Yehhsien, one of the four largest ports on the northern coast, and engaged Chinese Red forces in two others.

The air force, using American planes and bombs, was attempting to halt Communist reinforcements, slipping to Shantung peninsula from Manchuria in junks.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

I NODDED an affirmation to my father's dictum. Then we were in the hallway just outside the kitchen where the guards were standing, vociferously thanking Katie for their supper.

"I never had such eats in all my life!" Gus was proclaiming loudly. "If I ever told my wife about this supper, she'd be so jealous she wouldn't speak to me for a month."

Startled Screech

"You beeg fool, eef you tell her ennyting like dot, she ought to snatch you bald-headed," Katie said with a hearty guffaw which ended in a startled screech as she saw my father.

"Oh, I sorry!" she said. "I alvays put my beeg foot in my mout."

Gus did not speak, but he shrank perceptibly, and tried to look as if he had not opened his mouth for the last hour, except to put food into it.

But my father smiled good-naturedly at Katie, to her palpable, amazed bewilderment.

"No harm done, Katie," he said. "And I think your advice to Gus was excellent. I should advise him to take it."

Gus flushed and stammered, and my father took pity on him, turning to Harry, who had just come in from outdoors.

"Everything ready for the return trek?" he asked.

"To the last check," he said. "The drivers filled up with gas, oil and water from our private pumps, and checked their tires before they went into supper. The cars are even headed in the right direction."

A Special Message

"Good work," my father said. "Take all the men out, except Gus, and have them get in the cars. I have a special message for him to take for me."

Gus was all smiles again, patently savouring the glory of his special office, and Harry ushered the other men through the outer door. As I moved toward my little study, my father's voice arrested me.

"There is no need for you to leave," he said. "Indeed, I should like you to hear this."

I came back beside him, and he spoke slowly to Gus.

"Gus, do you remember the men who were trying to get hold of Mr. and Mrs. Brixton, and whom we had trailed?"

"Sure ting, I remember all of dot," Gus replied.

"Then, when you get back, call this number—memorize it now and then I'll tear it up—ask for Mr. Robert Brown—can you remember that?—and tell him to contact Mr. Charles Smith, immediately, at the telephone number he has."

Must Memorize It

He held out a slip of paper to Gus, and then sat down in the nearest chair.

"Tell me when you have memorized it," he said.

Gus went to work at the number as if he were a terrier working for his bone. The names were evidently an old story to him, but the number was something new. At last, with a liberally perspired face, he handed the paper back to my father.

"Morningside —" he intoned. "Ask for Mr. Robert Brown, tell heem to call Mr. Charles Smith, eemeedlately at the number he has."

"Very good, Gus," my father commended. "Now, if you should forget the number, call me up here and ask me what the price of the coat was that I ordered. Then I'll give you the number again, telling you I want it in the morning. Do you think that then you can remember the word 'Morningside?'"

Rare Gesture

"I tink I can remember it all anyway," Gus said, "but I'll remember vot you tell me."

"All right," my father said. Then he held out his hand, a rare gesture with him, when dealing with his men.

"You're a good man, Gus," he said, and the look his caretaker turned on him was like that of a devotee looking at a patron saint.

"Anybody just have to be good to work for you," he stammered. Then he rushed outside as if somebody were pursuing him.

"Poor fellow!" my father said. But I answered him softly. "No, lucky fellow!"
